Happy Birds

Cardboard, recycled materials and acrylic paint
£25 per bird to support the work of Arteast

Arteast have been exploring the colourful nature of birds, these flying animals that defy gravity and take to the air with displays of colour and song that amaze whenever we are lucky enough to see them in nature.

Arteast is an inclusive art group at the Bromley by Bow Centre, run by Frank Creber. The group meets every Tuesday afternoon. Please feel free to get in touch through the website below.

Three little Birds

Mixed media

NFS

I took this opportunity to pay tribute to the robins, little kindred spirits of our London trees and shrubs. They are often my companions as I do my job as a gardener, watching me from nearby with their kind eyes, grateful that I am stirring the soil bringing up treats for them to enjoy. Such a lovely sight!

The Rusty Hedgerow

Metal, twigs, recycled plastic.

£385.00

I made this artwork because I love hearing birds in the hedgerows - but sadly urban hedges are also likely to be full of litter as well as birdsong. To reflect this, I've used recycled waste materials to create this hedgerow and occupants.

Kick-Ass Forever!

Wood and watercolour

POA

This is a phoenix, a mythical bird. Thousands of images of it can be found all over the world. It is a multi cultural bird. The phoenix is said to live for hundreds of years. When it feels very tired, it gathers kindling and the sun sets the wood on fire. The phoenix dies but in some magical way, it arises again to live for many more hundreds of years.

This phoenix portrait is made from very thin painted birch wood and some wood veneer like the kindling in the story. The frame is made from Victorian wood, (top and bottom), and oak from the mid 1600s, (left and right). So it flies through the centuries!

The image is based on a picture made about 900 years ago which can be found in the Aberdeen Bestiary. Gorgeous beasts, real and imagined, for you to google.

The Protector, Sky Warrior

Wool, feathers, wire, metal beads, papers, glitter
NFS

Sky Warrior is the protector of the skies. He flies high over the hills and mountains. With his sharp beady eyes he is always there, looking down upon his land to see all is well. If he sees any kind of trouble, he swoops like lightning to help and save the creatures below. All in his kingdom love him and feel safe in the knowing that he will always be there to protect them.

Blossom

Silk flowers, glitter paper, sequins and beads, feathers, wool
NFS

She lives in the prettiest of flower gardens. Her favorite time is spring and summer, when she flies to inspect all the gardens that are growing with plants and flowers, with the colours of the rainbow.

The Busy Bees are her very best friends, because they say that Blossom helps them in the gardens to inspect each flower every day - and this is very good to pollinate the flowers to help make their honey. What a great team they make.

The Singing Love Birds

Polystyrene birds, feathers, beads, jewellery, sequins, wooden stick silk plant and fabrics.
NFS

When The Singing Love Birds meet, they play so happily together, flying around from branch to tree, chirping their sweet little songs. They sing about the yellow sunshine, the beautiful greens of the leaves on the trees, the blue sky above. They even love the little white and grey clouds that hover above, and sing that rain drops will fall to nourish and make the gardens grow. They sing to the moon at night and stars that twinkle in the sky before they go to sleep.
Can you think of any songs that you love to sing, they will be so happy if you can.

Mother

Fabric, Earth and Wood

£375.00

Birds seem to have such a remarkable power that they were associated with the creation of the world. In a Native American creation myth, a water bird dives into the ocean and brings up a ball of mud, which forms the beginning of dry land.

'Mother' speaks directly to one's primitive nature and our human tendency to be both protective and creative. These mysterious earth stuffed eggs are raw manifestations of organic creativity, humble remnants of life, protected by a woven nest.

The nest, evoking a sense of home, and representing love and warmth, guides and feeds its helpless offspring. Some birds even return to the same nest year after year.

Similarly to the function of a womb, this visceral sculpture is a physical manifestation of the concept of a provider, a protector and our source of life. Cushioning us so we too can grow to be creative and free to fly as we grow.

White Stalker, Great Egret

Household plastic waste

£300.00

My Great Egret is made from all my household plastic waste. I choose the Egret as it was one of the first endangered birds success stories. Bought back from near extinction after being persecuted for its feathers. Individuals started to campaign to protect the birds & formed the now world renown Audubon society. I use plastic to illustrate the latest threat to our wildlife & as individuals we can make a difference.
